Spinning on the Commo That historic bit of ground known to the world as Boston Common has been the background of many a strange and picturesque scene. Surely not one of the varied events which have been acted upon it presents a quainter ple ture than one which took place about 1750. Mr. Francis Drake describes the occurrence in his article in "The Memo rial History of Boston" on "Life In Boston In the Provincial Period."

In 1720 an attempt was made in Bos to encourage the art of spinning and to establish schools where the process could be taught to the poor. It was recommended that twenty spin ning wheels should be provided by the town for the use of children sent from the almshouse and a premium allowed of £5 for the first piece of linen spur

In 1747 a society was organized fo the encouragement of the industry, and the fourth anniversary was publicly

"In the afternoon," says an old ac count, "300 young female spinsters, de cently dressed, appeared on the com mon with their spinning wheels. The wheels were placed in three rows, a female at each wheel. Weavers also appeared in garments of their own weaving. There was an immense num ber of spectators."

The Size of Great Men.

The Iron Duke has always been a mystery. I have read that he was six feet four inches tall. I have read also that he was only five feet six inches from five feet six Inches to five feet eleven inches. There are some things seemingly very simple which it is impossible to establish. This is one of them. Historians are still guessing the height of Julius Caesar, the size of Hannibal's head, the weight of Alexander the Great and the general di-mensions of Solomon. Why, we are not even sure of the stature of George Washington. It might be believed that Napoleon, Alexander the Great and Jay Gould were of the same size, three bumptious little chaps. And it is common belief that Charlemagne, Erling the Bold, Frederick the Great, Robert Bruce, Sir William Wallace, General Winfield Scott and Richard Coeur de Lion were all top notchers, "Old Fuss and Feathers," formed in the prodigality of nature, leading in girth and weight.—New York Press.

This Day and Time.

"Dis yer day an' time," said Brother Williams, "is too much fer me. Ef dar wuz a Joshua livin' who could make de sun stan' still he do it so he could save on de gas bill, an' ef Jonah wuz livin' now an' a whale didn't have any mo sense than ter swaller him.he'd lan' dat whale high an' dry an' sell him ter de lie trust, an' ef Lot wuz gwine 'long wid his wife an' she wuz turned into pillar er salt he'd buil' a fence roun her an' 'lect hisse'f president er a sal trust! Hits de rushin'est, grab all age I ever wuz in. Dey not only rides de lightnin', but dey done staked off de stars, an' dey knows des how many hours a day de fireman in de sun works, an' dey is slick enough ter tie tin cans ter de talls of de comics what go blazin' roun' de sky! We is so wise on our own account dat wisdom itse't looks foolish. Whar we'll fetch up I dunno. All I does know is dat we gwine fast enough ter make yo' head swim!"-Atlanta Constitution.

The elder's wife was seriously ill, and the doctor advised rest and quiet. But the lady was very devoted to church work and worried herself into hysteria because she could not attend services and hear her favorite pastor

"She must not leave the house," warned the doctor, "but you can easily arrange to have her hear the sermo

The elder grasped the suggestion and made the necessary arrangements for transmitting the sermon into his wife's

At noon on the Sabbath the doctor called and asked, "How did it work?"
"Fine," declared the elder, rubbing his bands gleefully. "Ten minutes after the sermon began she fell sound asleep."-Philadelphia Ledger.

His Criticism.

Robert Louis Stevenson once took an eccentric acquaintance of his to hear Sir Charles Halle play the plane at St. James' hall, London. Sir Charles was a musician of the most correct and severe British type, though a German by birth. After the concert was ove they walked as far as the Marble arch. neither having spoken. Arrived there the friend stopped and delivered himself thus: "The manner of the elderly statesman at the piano was somewha austere and chilling." And then they walked on.
